Brilliantly written and designed

By Julia Vaughns

Praise and Gratitude to Jonathan Goldman for providing us with The Gift of the Body. As a rabbi working with people in their deepest places, I have been waiting and waiting for someone to write a practical textbook of spiritual healing and it has finally arrived. Goldman has taken a field of highly complex esoteric knowledge and presented it in a format that is inviting and engaging to read. Brilliantly written and designed, The Gift of the Body's content is accessible to both seasoned veterans of the spiritual healing arts and newcomers alike. Each chapter is a self-contained unit with practical advice, and readers will find that they can move comfortably at their own pace, be it through large sections of material or a few pages at a time. An immense resource for those who seek to heal themselves in this lifetime, The Gift of the Body provides a road-map of healing and transformation that both transcends and is applicable to all authentic spiritual paths. Be it for casual or advanced inquiry, The Gift of the Body will prove an invaluable ally to those seeking genuine spirituality and genuine healing. I cannot recommend this book highly enough and am certain that it will become a standard reference guide in the spiritual and healing professions.

Thank you Jonathan Goldman and The Essential Light Institute for bringing forth this tremendous offering.

Grounded, compassionate teaching about healing from within the Light in humility, yielding empowerment.

By tschott

An experience I had with Jonathan and about 20 other people one weekend about 6 years ago changed my life irrevocably. I didn't even know I was on the edge of such a change. I thought I had certain things figured out "for sure" and other things were a jumble. I just needed to unjumble those things and then I would be "all better." I learned or began to learn a lot that weekend - I'm still learning from that weekend. One day I will study with Jonathan again. In the meantime, I now have this gift of his book where as I read I can hear his cadence and be reminded of what I learned while also receiving the gift of new aspects of the healing journey.

The teachings within this textbook ignores no aspect of the self. I mean, it is acknowledged that we are human beings experiencing this 3-D reality and there is no call to rise above that or overcome it or disparage it in order to achieve healing and growth. Rather, we learn how each part of the whole serves the whole, the wider community, and the other individual parts of our being. This is so key. There is no need to escape out of our physicality to experience healing or to work with the Light. Jonathan explains why and throughout the book teaches us to integrate all the parts, all the aspects. Our healing is integral and integrated.

My perception of another encouraging message throughout the book is, "Take your time." There is no deadline to healing. It is an unfolding that happens throughout my life. It isn't something to "get through." It's this amazing event at every turn in the Now. That's really beautiful.

As someone usually wary of those who call themselves "spiritual teachers" or "healers" who also has a sensitive, um, well, bs meter, my experience with him, my gut and my Heart tell me that Jonathan is the real deal. He is a teacher and a healer; he is real and human. His teachings are empowering while also reminding me to embody gratefulness and humility.

Similarly to the way I revisit my Heart Camp weekend years ago, I know I will re-read this book and each time, find a different aspect to consider and explore for my healing.

Thank you, Jonathan. So much.

Work of Art!

By Laura Anderson

Thank you Jonathan Goldman for sharing your love and wisdom with the world through this book. I am literally experiencing healing throughout my whole self as I read and relate to what you have so generously shared in this "work of art". The message is one of being both human and beyond human. The clear insightful way that you teach us about our humanity and our innate ability to tap into our connection with the Divine is exquisite. I have walked this path for fifteen years and am now beginning to work with others. I have had beautiful teachers along the way and I am telling everyone I know about this extraordinary book of yours! Now I understand how one can become excited about a "bucket list" .....I hope to meet you in person one day!

Very Grateful!
